OAKSTONE MEDICAL PUBLISHING ACHIEVES ACCREDITATION FROM THE ACCREDITATION COUNCIL FOR CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION

Birmingham, AL, May 23, 2007 – Oakstone Medical Publishing, a leader in continuing medical and dental education (CME/CDE) publishing and a Hights Cross Communications company, today announced that it has been awarded accreditation by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME). This latest ACCME accreditation will stay in effect until March 2011.

“The Oakstone Medical team is proud to have again achieved this accreditation. ACCME accreditation is a mark of quality CME activities that meet the rigorous professional standards outlined by ACCME’s Essential Areas and Elements and Accreditation Policies,” said Nancy McMeekin, Oakstone Medical Publishing’s President and CEO. “ACCME accreditation assures the medical community – both the medical institutions with whom we collaborate to produce CME programs and medical professionals who use our CME programs to fulfill their CME requirements – that Oakstone is committed to quality standards.”

Oakstone Medical said that ACCME is the CME profession’s accrediting body for publishers and producers of CME programs and materials and for the CME programs of the nation’s medical institutions, state medical societies, and medical professional associations. ACCME is comprised of seven member organizations -- American Board of Medical Specialties, the American Hospital Association, the American Medical Association, the Association for Hospital Medical Education, the Association of American Medical Colleges, the Council of Medical Specialty Societies, and the Federation of State Medical Boards.
